

FRONT END DEVELOPER

Welcome to Waste! (Pending successful interview)

We've been getting down with the internets for about five years now and need a Flash/HTML Developer to join us on our journey towards digital world domination.

The purpose of this role is the development and maintenance of a range of digital projects from Flash and hybrid web sites through to games and interactive experiences with a strong focus on entertainment. As we're sure you have gathered, seriously impressive skills in Flash, HTML/CSS and PHP/server side scripting are what we're after.

You will be working alongside our Lead Developer and the creative team to produce world class websites, games, interactive experiences and mobile apps for leading brands as well as our own IP. We are a design-driven outfit so you will need a strong visual approach to your red-hot coding skills and be fluent in deciphering drunken designer babble and converting it into elegant, kick-ass code!

We're a team of 19 strong and value the awesomeness and culture in our studio as highly as our team's skill's; therefore a positive, team-orientated attitude is a must. As important, you must also be willing to throw-down on the Foosball table ;)
